Small Wonder

Three hours south of Perth, in the heart of the Margaret River wine and surfing region lies the tranquil and hauntingly rugged Injidup Spa Retreat. Pronounced "Injinup" or "Injy" by locals, the retreat offers a level of service that instantly refutes assertions that "bigger is better".

At the heart of the retreat is the lodge housing the spa suites where skilfully trained therapists weave their magic. Treatments are tailored to suit individual needs; private consultations identify the best form of therapies to relax and revitalise using ancient wisdoms and the acclaimed organic Sodashi range.

Injidup offers the kind of intimacy which is so rare these days. You can lock yourself away in your villa and be at one with nature, or conversely explore the diversity of the surrounding region that boasts some of the most spectacular coastline in the world. It's the perfect place to find peace or your self away from city life.

The Real Deal

If you've become skeptical about the efficacy of the many skincare products, especially those promising unsubstantiated miraculous benefits, SkinCeuticals might change that. Among the first companies to scientifically back product claims by publishing clinical studies in respected medical journals.

Unlike conventional "feel good" cosmetic and skincare products, SkinCeuticals is an advanced line of vitamin therapy treatments and sun protection products created by dermatologists and scientists, resulting in unparalleled credibility with the medical community worldwide.

Being advanced skincare improving skin health at the cellular level, SkinCeuticals has developed an effective anti-aging daily skincare regimen. Based on high concentrations of pure, pharmaceutical-grade ingredients combined with natural botanical extracts in optimized formulations, its products are designed to prevent future damage, protect healthy skin and correct previous damage. SkinCeuticals products are used and distributed by skincare professionals such as dermatologists, plastic surgeons, medicalized spas and premium institutes worldwide.
